Coimbatore — Pump Capital of India

Coimbatore, nestled at the foothills of the Western Ghats, is proudly known as the Pump Capital of India — a title earned through decades of engineering brilliance and relentless innovation.

The city manufactures over 50% of India's total motor and pump output, with more than 3,000 pump and motor units operating across the region. From submersible pumps to high-pressure industrial systems, Coimbatore's products serve agriculture, infrastructure, and industry across 100+ countries worldwide.

What sets Coimbatore apart is its unique ecosystem — a deep talent pool of skilled engineers, world-class foundries, precision machining facilities, and a culture of entrepreneurship passed down through generations. The city's pump industry contributes significantly to India's export earnings, making it a global benchmark for quality and affordability.

From powering Indian farms to supplying international markets, Coimbatore's pumps are a testament to the city's engineering DNA — quiet, powerful, and built to last.

Kongunadu Kaalan – A Flavour of Coimbatore

Among the many culinary treasures of Coimbatore, Kongunadu Kaalan holds a special place — a rich, earthy curry that speaks of tradition, terroir, and the warmth of the Kongu region.

Prepared with raw banana or yam simmered in a thick, spiced yogurt-coconut gravy, Kaalan is a dish of beautiful contrasts: creamy yet tangy, mild yet deeply flavourful. Tempered with mustard seeds, curry leaves, and a whisper of coconut oil, it carries the unmistakable aroma of a Kongunadu kitchen.

Once a humble home-cooked staple, Kaalan has found its way to street-food stalls and festival gatherings across Coimbatore, where it is served alongside steaming rice or crisp dosas. Its earthy depth and comforting texture have made it a beloved favourite among locals and visitors alike.

For delegates visiting Coimbatore, a taste of Kaalan is more than a meal — it is an invitation into the soul of Kongunadu cuisine, where every ingredient tells a story of the land.

Ooty Toy Train — Nilgiri Mountain Railway

Few journeys in India capture the romance of rail travel quite like the Ooty Toy Train. Chugging steadily through the mist-draped Nilgiri Hills, this metre-gauge marvel has enchanted travellers since 1908 — earning its place as a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 2005.

The Nilgiri Mountain Railway climbs from Mettupalayam to Udagamandalam (Ooty), ascending over 2,000 metres through 16 tunnels, 250 bridges, and some of the steepest rack-and-pinion sections in Asia. Along the way, passengers are treated to breathtaking vistas of tea estates, dense shola forests, cascading waterfalls, and the quiet grandeur of the Western Ghats.

What makes this journey unforgettable is its unhurried pace — a gentle five-hour ascent that invites you to slow down, breathe in the cool mountain air, and savour every curve and climb. The heritage steam locomotive, still operational on select stretches, adds a layer of nostalgia that few modern experiences can match.

For delegates visiting Tamil Nadu, the Toy Train is more than a scenic ride — it is a living testament to colonial-era engineering, ecological beauty, and the timeless charm of the Nilgiris.

The background of the poster is a vibrant blue stage scene. On the left, a silhouette of a male singer in a suit with a stethoscope around his neck holds a microphone. To his right is a large, glowing oval containing the text 'Pedicon Idol' in a white cursive font, with '— 2027 —' below it. Further right is a large, vintage-style silver microphone on a stand. In the bottom right corner, there is a silhouette of an acoustic guitar and a drum set. The entire scene is filled with floating musical notes and bright stage spotlights at the top.

State PEDICON 2025 — my Coimbatore Experience

Dr Ajay Prakaash T R
Neonatologist, Tirunelveli

State PEDICON 2025 at Coimbatore was truly an experience to remember. From the moment we entered the city, Coimbatore welcomed us with warmth, energy, and an atmosphere that perfectly blended academics, hospitality, and culture.

The conference was exceptionally well organized, with excellent scientific sessions, interactive workshops, and meaningful discussions that brought together pediatricians from across the state. Every hall was filled with enthusiasm for learning, sharing experiences, and growing together as a pediatric community. The smooth coordination, comfortable venues, and vibrant academic environment reflected the tremendous effort put in by the organizing team.

What made the experience even more special was celebrating Independence Day in Coimbatore during the conference. The city carried a festive spirit everywhere, creating a memorable backdrop for the event. Between sessions, the conversations, laughter, networking, and friendships made the entire experience feel far beyond just an academic meeting.

One of the highlights of the trip was visiting the Isha Yoga Center. The peaceful surroundings and the majestic presence of Adiyogi offered a refreshing pause from the busy pace of conference life. It gave many of us a rare opportunity to relax, reflect, and reconnect with ourselves amidst our demanding professional schedules.

Coimbatore stood out not only for its excellent conference infrastructure, but also for its hospitality, cleanliness, pleasant climate, accessibility, and the balance it offers between academics and meaningful leisure experiences. Whether it was the conference halls, the local cuisine, the warmth of the people, or the memorable places around the city, Coimbatore created an experience that stayed with all of us even after returning home.

After experiencing State PEDICON 2025, one thing became very clear — Coimbatore has everything needed to host a memorable National PEDICON 2027. The city has the capability, the spirit, and the warmth to welcome pediatricians from all across the country and create an event that will be remembered not only for academics, but for the overall experience itself.

Raag Deepak
A Painting of Devotion
Dr Sangita Lodha
Nashik

This is not just a painting I made 46 years ago...

This is a moment where devotion turned into fire.

The warmth, the surrender, the glow of inner fire.

Inspired by the legend of Meera Bai and the mystical power of Raag Deepak, believed to ignite flames, I painted not the fire you see... but the fire you feel.

The lamps around her may flicker,

But the true light rises from within her being.

Her eyes are closed, not in rest... but in union.

Her fingers don't just touch the tanpura — they dissolve into its vibration.

The flames surrounding her are not consuming... they are witnessing.

In that moment, Meera is no longer separate —

She is raag,

She is bhakti,

She is agni.

Every stroke of this canvas carries the heat of surrender,

Every hue whispers a note of divine music,

And every glow is a reminder —

True devotion does not burn you... it transforms you.

"Some songs are heard... but Raag Deepak is lived."
